

JUSTICE (and humor) FOR ALL

(A monthly humorletter) February 1999

This humorletter contains both clean original humor as well as clean bits of humor that have found their way to me via Email. Many times the original author is unknown so if you read something here that you find very funny it's OK to assume that I wrote it.

You have my permission to reproduce and distribute any items you'd like as well as the entire humor letter just so long as you are doing it for free and not for profit.- Enjoy!

Points to Ponder

- I started out with nothing...I still have most of it.
- Time may be a great healer, but it's also a lousy beautician.
- It's not hard to meet expenses... they're everywhere.
- Old people shouldn't eat health foods. They need all the preservatives they can get.
- When did my wild oats turn to prunes and all bran?
- It's not the pace of life that concerns me, it's the sudden stop at the end.
- A day without sunshine is like a day in Seattle.

Humor and Training Tip #25

Use name tags to loosen up your participants. Have everyone put a number in each of the four corners of the tag that mean something to them. This is a great conversation starter.

Since most job titles tell little about what a person actually does, suggest that the group rename their jobs to reflect their daily tasks and put that on their nametag.

Wait until you see the creativity and laughter this ignites!

Humor Tip #24

If you're not a naturally-funny person, there's still hope. Many executives benefit immensely from hiring a presentation skills coach.

Past graduates from my Comedy Workshoppe include: Charles Brewer, President of Mindspring, Emory Mulling, President of The Mulling Group, an executive out placement firm and bank president Ken Driskell.

All of these executives came to me for help because they knew the power of humor as a communications tool.

PLEASE CHECK THE COMEDY WORKSHOPPE PAGE FOR THE NEXT CLASS DATES.

TIPS FROM MEGA NETWORKING #1

It's not who you know, it's who knows what you do. I was amazed when I surveyed my close friends as to what I do for a living. Not one of them knew what I did well enough to be a good source for referrals!

Most didn't know I make my living presenting keynotes, workshops and breakout sessions. Try surveying your friends. You'll be stunned.
