

JUSTICE (and humor) FOR ALL
(A monthly humorletter) June 1997

This humorletter contains both clean original humor as well as clean bits of humor that have found their way to me via Email. Many times the original author is unknown so if you read something here that you find very funny it's OK to assume that I wrote it. You have my permission to reproduce and distribute any items you'd like as well as the entire humor letter just so long as you are doing it for free and not for profit.- Enjoy!

"Things I've learned from my children"

When you hear the toilet flush and the words Uh-oh, it's already too late.
Legos will pass through the digestive tract of a four-year-old.
Play Dough and Microwave should never be used in the same sentence.
No matter how much Jello you put in a swimming pool you still can't walk on water.
Garbage bags do not make good parachutes.
The spin cycle on the washing machine does not make earth worms dizzy.
If you hook a dog leash over a ceiling fan the motor is not strong enough to rotate a 42-pound boy wearing underwear and a superman cape.

Humor and Training Tip #10

How often should I use Humor?

The most effective use of humor for the non-humorist is placed once every seven minutes or so. When you open your presentation with humor, you create expectations of good things to come. After about seven minutes the brain desires another dose. If it doesn't come they start to hunger for humor. If you feed their brains they will thank you with their attention and laughter.

Humor Tip #9

Give random gifts of laughter. The next time a receptionist asks you on the phone, "Who are you with?" Say, "I'm just sitting at my desk by myself".

Ad-Libs for Speakers and Trainers

If a waiter drops a tray of dishes, say...

"Job opening!"

or

"Just put that anywhere."

When you hear loud noises from the room next door...

"I hate it when they put me next door to the amateur jugglers!"

or

"Sometimes those AARP meetings just get out of hand!"

When someone asks you to make the room warmer...

"I've asked the maintenance man to warm it up in here but he's out working in the polar bear cage."
