

JUSTICE (and humor) FOR ALL

(A monthly humorletter) May 1998

This humorletter contains both clean original humor as well as clean bits of humor that have found their way to me via Email. Many times the original author is unknown so if you read something here that you find very funny it's OK to assume that I wrote it.

You have my permission to reproduce and distribute any items you'd like as well as the entire humor letter just so long as you are doing it for free and not for profit.- Enjoy!

Humor Quickies

- Before they invented drawing boards, what did they go back to?
- If all the world is a stage, where is the audience sitting?
- If you ate pasta and antipasta, would you still be hungry?
- Does the Little Mermaid wear an algebra?
- How do I set my laserprinter on stun?
- If the #2 pencil is the most popular, why is it still #2?
- If you recognize a friend at "It's a Small World" at Disney World, what do you say?

Humor and Training Tip #19

Magic does the "trick".

Using simple magic tricks is a fantastic way to hold your participant's attention and drive your point home.

Where the magic in my presentation requires much skill and practice there are literally hundreds of either self-working or minimal skill tricks which can be purchased at your local magic shop. Add a touch of magic to your presentation today!

Humor Tip #18

Dan Jones of McKee Foods had $5 checks made up and distributed to managers. They were told to look for employees doing an outstanding job and reward them. The employees will use the checks to bid on items at the company picnic. The checks got the managers to notice good work and let the employees realize that their extra effort was noticed and appreciated by management.

Ad-Libs for Speakers and Trainers

When someone points out that you made a spelling mistake, say...

"Mark Twain once said he never respected anyone who couldn't spell a word more than one way."

or

"Last week my SpellChecker laughed at me."

When someone walks in late, say...

"Do you know what we do around here to people that are late? Absolutely nothing!"

(Then give them a 15 second up date.)

straight!"
